LABOUR GOVERNMENT RESIGN MAY

T.U.C. ADAMANT

REFUSES AGREE TO SACRIFICES ON PART OF WORKERS AND UNEMPLOYED.

CONSERVATIVE GOVERNMENT?

The breach between the Labour Government and the powerful Trade Union Congress has not been bridged. Indeed, if anything, it is widening.

As a result of it remaining adamant on the subject of sacrifices on the part of workers and the unemployed it has placed Mr. MacDonald in a tight corner. At the same time he is being badgered by Conservatives to effect substantial economics. Truly, may it be said, the Labour Premier is between the devil and the deep

That a real crisis is imminent and that Conservatives expect to play a leading part in it is confirmed by Mr. Stanley Baldwin's recall to London.

GANDHI'S CHARGE SHEET

CONGRESS ACTIVITIES CONTRARY TO SPIRIT & LETTER OF PACT

VICEROY'S CONTENTIONS

ARBITRATION TRIBUNAL DEFINITELY REFUSED

It was announced, yesterday, that the Viceroy had suddenly decided to return to Simla to consider his reply to Gandhi's allegations. That he should have so had to decide is indicative of another serious political situation developing.

His Excellency the Viceroy has lost no time in issuing his reply. It is, even from the meagre details contained in the cable published below, a "scathing indictment of Congress duplicity."

Undoubtedly it will have the effect of precipitating another crisis, and it will not be surprising to hear that Civil Disobedience, with all its attendant evils, has been embarked upon.

Of course, all hope of Gandhi now being permitted to go to London to attend the Round Table Conference is off. Naturally this is greatly to be regretted. Gandhi's absence denudes the Conference of much of its importance, but whether it will also impair the effectiveness of its decisions and proposals is problematical.

Bombshell in Ranks of Booksellers.

COPPYRIGHT PROBLEM

Something like a bombshell has been thrown into the ranks of English booksellers by the new action; spite of negotiations extending over of the United States Customs Service in prohibiting the importation into the United States of English copyright books which are already copyrighted there.

U.S. BAN ON ENGLISH an authority on American copyright law, has expressed the opinion that the Customs are quite justified in their action. The position appears to be that if a book has been copyrighted in the States, the importation of any copy of such book is an infringement of their law. For many years the sale of English first editions has been a source of much profit to English booksellers.

The question of copyright between the United States and Britain has never been properly settled, in many years. There is no distinction made between books sent to a private collector. Unless the restrictions are relaxed the American collector will lose his pleasure and the English bookseller his profit, and nobody will be better off for it. The only way out at present is for sent some first English editions of the owner of the American copy-Show and Galsworthy to a private right to give his sanction, but that he is not likely to do. It may be recalled that many years ago, upon a pirated edition of "Fors Clayicels and returned the books to the gera" being published in the States, sender, on the ground that their Ruskin wrote a furious letter of protest, but the only notice the publishers took of the letter was to pubthe American Copyright Act. . A sensation was caused at Southend on the first day of play when the strong Notts batting side surprisingly collapsed before the at Lord's. Essex attack. Reuter, however, does not inform us of the bowlers responsible for the destruction. but, judging from recent form, it may be concluded that Nichols and H. T. O. Smith made the ball get up uncomfortably on a difficult wicket. Essax, however, batted well before Voce and possibly Larwood and Staples (S.).

At Talinton, the ground which witnessed the breaking of W. G. Grace's long-standing century record, Jack Hobbs registered the only century of the day, claiming 101 out of the 193 runs put on for the first wicket. His great effort was, however, unavailing, and Surrey had to return to town with points instead of five. P. G. H. Fender showed a glimpse of his best form when capturing seven Somerset wickets for 58 runs out of a total of 286. A really fine piece of bowling. At Cheltenham, Gloucestershire succeeded in gaining the major points but were unable to force a win. On the complaint that the owners were condemned without being charged or heard, the appeal was also allowed .... This is perfectly just, (says the Nautical Magazine); no one has the right to deprive a man of his livelihood otherwise it might be alleged that a man was too old at 50 to retain his command. On the other hand, quite apart from the case of the Highland Hope, it seems desperately hard that a master who has been for years in command of a ship should not receive a pension for his long services. They will look much prettier in those new frocks.

HOME GYMNASIUM.

Many other ingenious exercises have been designed for small flats and houses where there is no space for the usual gymnasium equipment. In the doorway, for instance, can be fitted a rectangular frame, with grips for the hands and feet. This swivels round so that a woman. who wants to be slim can step into it and whirl herself in a series of complicated exercises which would normally need much space and skill.

BEAUTIFUL HANDS.

Five Minutes' Care A Day.

[By Phillids Hughes.] Beauty in many cases is only a question of remembering to care suggesting what you haven't. Let us consider the question of arms and hands. You can do quite a lot to improve their appearance. Hand and arm packs are now used as regularly as face packs, and are easily made and applied at home. White of egg, lemon juice, milk, glycerine, magnesia, medicinal mud are some of the simple ingredients which will make the hands soft, white and supple again. A home-manicure is a simple and pleasant business, especially as the shops are so full of tempting, inexpensive aids to finger beauty. Five minutes a day is all that is required to keep the finger-nails clean and

The Daily Treatment.

If the nails are properly filed once a week the daily treatment is simple enough. Work from the corner of the nail towards the middle, and never rub the file up and down the nail, but lightly and in one direction all the time.

All you need do is smooth the nails with an emery board, wash them well in warm soap and water, pressing back the cuticles while the hands are wet to shape the rims into attractive ovals, and apply a little good liquid polish to make them shine like jewels.

Avoid constant work with an orange stick. This increases the space between nail and finger, causing the nails to get dirty quickly.

Hands and arms are invariably neglected, even in these no-sleeve days. There is no reason why they should not be creamed and powdered just as often and as carefully as the face. The arms should certainly have their share of anti-sunburn and anti-freekle lotion.

Message and Exercise.

Message and exercise do as much towards beautifying hands and arms both standing and sitting, being as the other parts of the body, and results are more quickly apparent.

Games, too, are more "slimming." | Skin food should be rubbed well As well as the popular backgam- into the hands and arms every mon, shove ha'penny, and Corin- night, the movement extending from thian bagatelle, hostesses are finger-tip to shoulder with special attention given to the elbow. ## STORIES OF ANCIENT SICILY

THE FOUNTAIN OF ARETHUSA.

cuse, but all day long, and far into the night, people lean over the rail and look down into that strang, pool. What do they see there—these little Sicilian children, boys, girls, soldiers, fishermen, and visitors from all over They see world? where fish dart to and fro; they see lazy ducks basking on the hot stones which have been placed round the pool, and a number of white doves fluttering over the elegant papyrus plant which grows in the fresh clear water. But it is very strange, that pool of fresh sweet water so close to the sea. Lift your eyes, and across a few yards of paving stone you see the ever-blue sea.

"Arethusa," smile the dark eyed Sicilians pointing to the pool lovingly. And the children throw crumbs, and whisper to Arethusa's doves.

Long ago, they tell you,

There is a railing round the goddess. Diana's arrows when Fountain of Arethusa in Syra- she went hunting. Arethusa had no troubles. She ran up and down the mountain side, she

How To Make A Fire Screen.

This useful fire screen can be made of ordinary deal and a piece of plywood.

Cut the two uprights from oneand-a-quarter-inch by one-inch wood. After planing these carefully on all sides, clamp them together and, with your try-square, marl the positions of the slots A.A. With saw and chisel cut out these slots to a depth of three-eighths of an inch.

The two cross-rails are threeeighths of an inch thick, cut to the sizes given in diagram B, and plane on both sides. At a distance of half an inch from each end of each rail bore two holes, one inch apart, as indicated at C, for the fixing of screws. Glue and screw the ends of the rails in the slots A.A. The distance between the uprights at each rail should be one foot four inches.

Make the centre panel of the screen from a piece of three plywood, two feet long and one foot pencil, and then, fix the panel to nut varnish stain. three inches wide. Plane the the cross-rails with small counterlong edges square, and saw the sunk screws, so that the heads river, which flowed above ground

Diana threw a cloud upon Arethusa, but Alpheus only smiled and waited for the nymph to step out of the cloud. Then the little nymph became so frightened that she melted into a stream of cold water, and, laughing gently, Alpheus immediately took the form of a river and flowed along beside the clear stream.

In her anger, Diana stamped upon the ground, and it split open. And Arethusa flowed quickly into the dark piaces beneath the sea, and eventually sprang up into the air and found herself in Ortygia, a part of Syracuse beloved by Diana. There she sparkled in the sunshine beside the sea, ever happy, ever lovely.

But it is whispered, after a time the river Alpheus found his way across the sea, and joined Arethusa in Syracuse. The people say that if a cup is thrown nto the river Alpheus in Greece, it will eventually appear in the Fountain of Arethusa in Sicily.

No wonder they gaze down into the pool-wondering! Is Arethusa sparkling and lovely because she now loves Alpheus, diagram. Mark the position of or is she smiling because she has outwitted him and he is still looking for her in the sea?

> will be covered by the beading strips. Cut the beading to the lengths required, glue it in place, and secure it with a few fine wire nails. The wooden diamond ornament at the top and the medallion at the bottom can now be glued on.

Obtain four pieces of wood, one inch thick, six inches long and five inches wide, for the feet. Plane these on both sides. Mark out one-inch squares on one piece, as shown in diagram E, and then pencil in the outline of the foot. Cut this out with a pad-saw, and use it for marking the shape of the other three feet. After cutting these out, smooth the rough edges with glasspaper, and fix each foot by two screws as indicated at F.

A smart finish can be given to the completed fire screen by coating it with oak or satin-wal-

RETORT TO DEATH SENTENCE

"It Ought to Have Been Done 20 Years Ago."

SCENE IN COURT.

"Thank you, sir; it ought to have been done twenty years ago."

This extraordinary statement was made by William Shelley, aged | Practice at Headquarters on Monfifty-six, a labourer, to Mr. Justice day. Swift at the Old Bailey after he and Oliver Newman, aged sixtyone, another labourer, were sentenced to death for murdering Herbert William Ayres, whose partly charred body was found on rubbish dump at Edgware.

The case for the prosecution was that Ayres, nicknamed __"Sticker," was attacked with sticks or an axe. and that after he had been killed his body was placed on a burning Newman said that Ayres "was killed in a fight which Ayres had started by pushing him down. No sticks were used, but only fists. They were muddled with drink at the time.

Shelley, giving evidence, when asked what sort if man Ayres was, replied, "He was like myself, a bit of a drunkard."

He added that Ayres was a big man and quarrelsome when upset. It was untrue that he (Shelley) had an axe with him on the night of the tragedy. He and Newman had nine or ten pints of beer apiece that night.

Mr. Justice Swift, in summing up, pointed out that if the jury thought that Ayres was killed in a fight, and there was no intention to kill him, they might find the accused guilty of manslaughter.

If they thought that the accused men intended to do Ayres some grievous hurt, and that he died from their punishment, then they were guilty of murder.

The jury, after an absence nearly an hour, found Newman an Shelley guilty of murder.
